

And now,
for something completely different!

Every year we work to create more value for your organization's membership in the Technology Councils of North America association. For 2010, The TECNA CEO Retreat is designed to improve your performance as a CEO and to achieve a new level of cohesiveness and networking within our industry as we look for new ways to help the North American innovation economy grow.

Register today for the first TECNA CEO Retreat (TECRE)

Conceived by the TECNA Board and designed for us by the entrepreneur support organization specialists at the world-famous Edward Lowe Foundation (ELF). TECRe is a 3 day, 2 night experience that will make you a stronger tech council leader. It is designed to give you an understanding of your capacity to grow as a manager, team builder and visionary. You will spend powerful, quality time with your peers.

TECRE will have at least four sessions, each of which will stand on its own – you don't have to attend them all (although we think you will want to!)

TECRE #1

April 11 - 13, 2009

(Sunday afternoon to Tuesday afternoon)
in Cassopolis Michigan, on the iconic ELF campus.

The program is limited to 20 TECNA member CEOs, please register now!

The value of a comparable program (if you could actually find a custom-developed seminar designed just for you, a tech council executive) is over $1,500, but we are now charging only $150 for TECNA member CEOs. This includes the program, room and board. Transportation will be reimbursed up to $600- (bring receipts to the event, checks will be cut right there). New: We will also now be able to provide bus transport to Cassopolis from Midway Airport (Chicago), bus leaves at 2:00 PM from Midway Airport on the 11th and will arrive back at Midway at 6:30pm on the 13th.

We encourage you to visit the ELF website www.edwardlowe.org to read all about the retreat experience. While you are there, check out other support they offer and learn more about the history of the foundation.
